

DAISY CHAIN

The Daisy Chain project is located in the rural setting of Calf Fallow Farm, Norton, Stockton, a charity providing respite care for the families and carers of children with autistic problems.

Following a visit to the Daisy Chain project and being impressed by the way the charity was using its resources, the Hazelgrove Lodge and the Almoner Roy Wheeler arranged a donation of £250.

The charity is raising funds to set up a 10-bed short break residential home with a swimming pool, play barn housing, soft play, arts and craft areas and an I.T. suite.

Because of the rural setting an opportunity is available for the children to have an interactive area with small animals such as sheep, goats, rabbits etc. The Almoner was also able to provide assistance through the generosity of a friend, to supply feed for the small animals on a regular basis and discounted prices.
